

ABGN #12

Adam's Bimonthly Grad Newsletter

Movie Nights

The much-discussed finale of Game of Thrones served as the capstone to Ronaldo's home theater hangs. We've also watched a few movies on his new projector. Hopefully a continuing Davis tradition!

Ronaldo's pad feat. Tyrion Lannister and Seva

Quarter's End

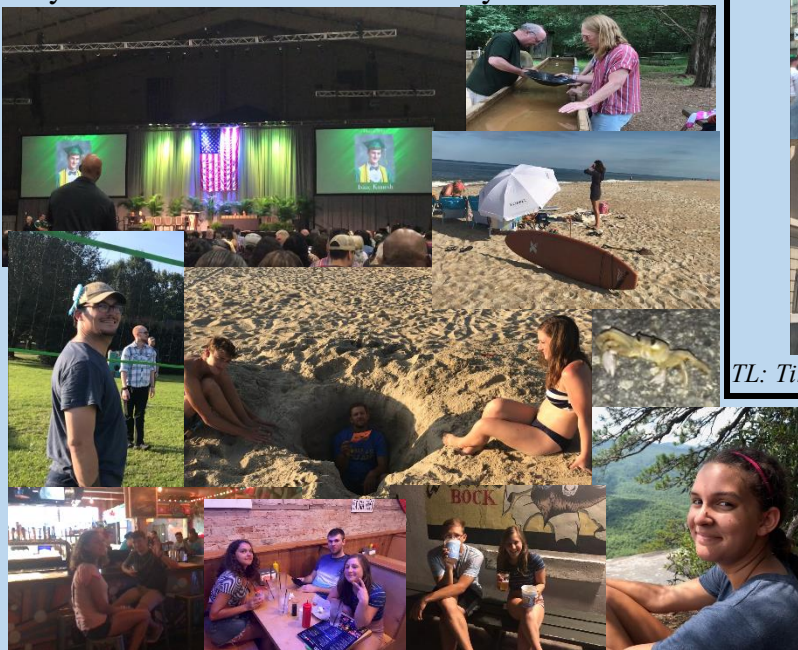

Spring Quarter 2019's tail end was punctuated by the return of Buds with Buds, a rekindling of my swim career, a trip to the Topanga Days festival and parade, my planting of sunflower seeds, an Imogen Heap concert, a new-to-me desktop PC, and the ever-present Physics 7 grading marathon.

Topanga Days, the newly-reopened rec pool, and Buds with Buds

A Few Weeks Home

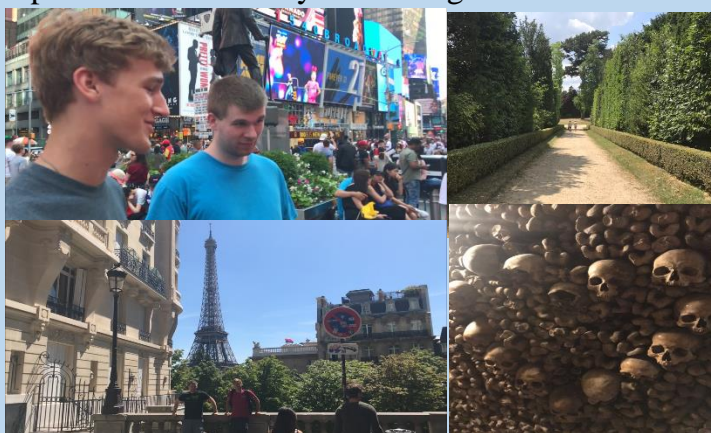

The end of exams finally came, so I hopped on a plane back to NC for my brother Ike's graduation. Mom took me, Nettie, and Uncle Mark to Reed Gold Mine. Afterward, the family+Darcy spent a week in Salvo on the Outer Banks. Darcy and I toured around NC for a few days before a lakehouse 4th of July.

From left-to-right, top-to-bottom: Ike's graduation ceremony; Nettie panning for gold; Tom at Olin's baby shower; beach shots at Salvo; Bobby with Darcy at the Boxcar in Raleigh; barhopping with Liz, Brandon, and Darcy in Chapel Hill; Asheville day with Darcy

Whirlwind Trip: Paris

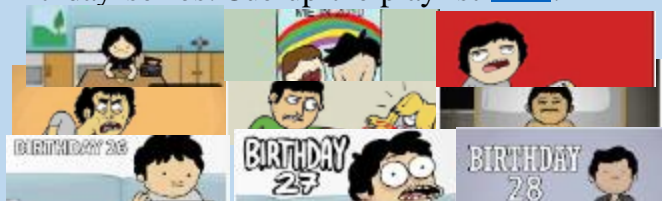

Two years in the making, this trip started with a 10 hour drive to New York. Brandon, Ike, and I stayed in Paris from July 8th to Bastille Day, the 14th. We mostly ran the tourist circuit, but we did find a few holes-in-the-wall. We spent our last full day wandering around Versailles.

TL: Time's Square TR: Gardens of Versailles BL: Eiffel Tower BR: Catacombs

Yotam's Birthday 28

Follow this hyperlink or go to www.youtube.com/watch?v=uLrDJEYeyQw to see my favorite Flash animator, Yotam, in the 14th video his annual Birthday series. Cue up the playlist here.

Year 3 is about to begin! The quantum and statistical mechanics half of the Prelim looms.

Feeling like spam? apkunesh@gmail.com to unsubscribe!